

We've got what it takes

... in partnering

Your questions:

- Which external partners can offer significant advantages in project development? Where will we find them?
- We need high-value license agreements with big pharma companies to increase our value. Who will support us?
- How can we guarantee the greatest possible benefit via partnering?
- How do we find a strategic or operative partner for research and marketing?

Our service:

Based on long-standing international experience in the pharmaceutical industry ASPIRAS offers solutions and initiates contacts with national and international partners. ASPIRAS will identify appropriate licensees and co-operation partners for you as well as partners for research, development and marketing.

The ASPIRAS team of experts assists in making contact with appropriate partners via a match making process and helps to make the partnership work in a profitable way. The ASPIRAS range of products includes support in licensing negotiations. Legal expertise is present within the ASPIRAS network and contracts with suitable third party providers can be arranged.
